

*"My son put his safety in their hands.
And now he's gone."*

Ann's son Mark was crushed to death after pressure was put on him and his workmates to get concrete slabs in place by the end of their shift.

If you think something isn't right, you can be the strong voice at your work, so accidents like Mark's never happen.

And when you need us, the CFMEU will always take a stand so that workers can come home safely to what matters most – no matter what.
